

Iris Machine Learning Project Report

This project applies supervised machine learning to the Iris dataset. Two models were used: Logistic Regression and Random Forest. The goal is to classify iris species based on flower measurements.